

Guest Bloggers Wanted for the West Greenspot!

The West Eco Warriors Blog (<https://wmsgreenspot.wordpress.com/>) is looking for blog contributions related to ecological issues and ways for West students to help the environment. Below is a list of topics we are interested in; however, we will accept posts on topics not on this list if we find them appropriate. Please keep your posts to 500 words or less and include any links or sources where you've pulled information, graphics, or photos. Include your full name and grade on your submission and submit to wmsgreenspot@gmail.com

If we choose to use your blog post, you will receive a Love The Earth Lollipop and a shout-out about your post in the PTSA's West Gazette.

BLOG TOPICS:

- The problem of ocean waste and the ocean clean-up efforts that are helping
- Information on types of renewable energy
- Organic gardening and its benefits
- What is composting and how does it help the environment
- Green vehicles and other forms of green travel
- A spotlight on an endangered animal
- The decline of bee populations and how to help
- Stories about students making an ecological difference
- Different ways to reduce, recycle, and reuse
- What is the Energy Star label on products and why is it important

